There will be services, both morning and evening, at the Christian church Sunday, and in the evening at the Methodist church.

Misses Segie Allen and Martha Hamilton, two of Rothville's sweet young ladies, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Sanders this week.

Mrs. A. R. Cawthron, who has been sojourning at Excelsior Springs for the past six weeks, returned home Saturday much improved in health.

Mrs. G. D. Fendell has been very sick during the last few days. Monday all hopes of her recovery vanished, but she has rallied now and is much better, and the chances at the present writing are that she will recover.

Work has at last begun on the much-talked-of coal prospect well. Up to this time, the prospectors have sunk the well to a depth of 45 feet. At this depth they attempted to put the curb in, but the well had filled with quicksand so rapidly that the curb could not be placed. Mr. Dearman went to Brunswick, Tuesday, and secured a pile driver with which he proposes to sink the curb to its full depth.

Mendon Mention.

Chester Caranton, of Hale, was in our city Monday.

Miss Katie Mizner is visiting in Bosworth this week.

Joe Ingram spent Sunday with his parents, at Hale.

F. S. Ward and Misses Corine and Ida Blakey, Ben Shupe and Miss Hattie Virgin, Bob Parker and Miss Nellie Whalen spent Sunday evening visiting, at Lakewood.

Two of our young ladies, attired in male costumes, were visiting on Fe's street Tuesday evening. It was their "Ida" to come out on Main street, but they "Wood" not.

Echo Echoings.

All kinds of vegetation is drying up for want of moisture.

Mrs. John Brewer is slowly improving, although still confined to her room.

R. T. Girvin returned home last Friday afternoon, after a short stay in Kansas City.

Wheat 35 to 38 cents. How is that? And of the very best quality. Of course the farmers kick.

The Cockrell township Republicans will hold their convention at the old grange hall, at Hamden, Aug. 4th, at 2 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Mosher and Mrs. Mary Prescott, of Salisbury, were visiting the family of John Brewer last Tuesday and Wednesday.

The forensic talent of Bynumville and Hamden was snowed under at the debate Saturday night by a pedagogue from Pee Dee and a "hayseed" of Echo. "So down went McGinty." The debate lasted two hours and resulted in the downfall of state's rights.

Salisbury Scintillations.

News items are dried up this week.

The meeting at the M. E. church still goes on.

B. F. Davis is preparing to rebuild his livery stable, recently burned.

J. W. Redd, A. C. Gilchrist, W. H. Bradley and the writer attended the Meeks trial, at Carrollton, this week.

The capital was well represented at the show, as was all the adjoining towns and villages, especially Roanoke.

Ed. Oldham preached at the Christian church last Sunday. He represents the Orphan's school for females, at Fulton.

There was a good crowd here show day and our merchants made the people happy by providing an abundance of ice water, on the street corners, free to all. The show was not up to the average and was infested with skin games of various kinds that fished the unwary.

Dutton Dots.

Mrs. Joe Miles is visiting at New Frankfurt this week.

A great deal of wheat is being shipped from this place now.

Mrs. S. L. Crismond, of Hale City, is visiting here this week.

The Populist Platform.

About 70 citizens of the county met in Salisbury last Saturday, calling themselves "we, the people of Charlton county, Mo.," and proceeded to adopt a party platform and nominate a ticket for all county offices except prosecuting attorney and probate judge, and these vacancies on the ticket the county Populist central committee was empowered to fill.

The ticket nominated is composed of good, substantial citizens, against whose personal characters no objection can be urged.

The platform demands morality, honesty and intelligence in county officers; protests against partisan tests for local office; demands clean, honest citizens for officials without regard to party affiliations; denounces corrupt methods of obtaining votes for party nominations; wants the office to seek the man and not the man the office; demands the reduction of official salaries in proportion to the reduction of the prices in products; and declares for the "initiative referendum of referring all laws to a vote of the people before they become laws."

No one is going to complain with their qualifications for office or their condemnation of corrupt methods of securing nominations. All parties declare for that, until a party once proves its power to cure office for its followers it is not troubled with corruptionists in party primaries and conventions. The denunciation against partisan tests for county offices carries little weight with it, when it is seen that none but Populists or those they expect to help them capture the office, have been nominated on their ticket. We look in vain for the nomination or endorsement of a single Democrat. Surely there are some Democratic candidates that come up to the measure of qualifications they have laid down. The ambition to serve the people is an honorable one, but the silly cry "the office should seek the man and not the man the office" has been more honored in the breach than in the observance. If official salaries are too high all good citizens, of whatever party, will unite to have them cut down. Their last demand is impracticable, and will never be realized. In a country of the extent and diversity of interest as the United States, it would be impossible to secure endorsement by a majority of the people for needed legislation.

Whatever there is good in their principles may be had through the Democratic party, and whatever is not good should not be granted by any party. We hope they will soon realize that the only hope of the American people lies in the success of Democracy.

COMMUNICATED.

Ed. COCHRAN:—I want to give you my hand by way of encouragement for the future as well as pardon for the past. I see you will help "our Riley" in his struggle for the income tax and free coinage of silver 16 to 1. I am pleased, too, with your article on single tax, tho' I am not so sure that that is the best way out.

I received lately a copy of a little monthly called Progressive Thought, one leaf of which I enclose for you to read and publish such extracts as are marked, if you have the space.

I am much pleased with the ring of this "Labor Exchange." It sounds so much more reasonable than civil war. It is lamentable to hear so many people foolishly talking of war, as though it would make matters better for the poor laborers to stand up in line of battle and be shot down by each other. For we all know that the cruel thieves that have made themselves rich on the toil of the millions of laborers will manage to keep out of harm's way, while they will only get a better chance to rob the poor mothers' sons after getting their scanty earnings so long.

It is said fools fight but wise men argue the question.

Soldiers, in an ordinary sense, are but so many machines that the despots use to crush the very principles the people are fighting for. I quote from Progressive Thought:—"If the working men are opposed by the monopolies, how can they be benefited by forming into armies and destroying themselves by shooting each other down and allowing the cause unharmed to feed and prosper on the misfortunes of the subjugated dupes? War is the devil's factor and can bring no good results. We must look the field over with eyes to make some beneficial changes. It must be done intelligently and soon. There is an easier and more agreeable plan than war. We must remove the pest and plant a healthy social system which is an evolution rather than a revolution. Education is the first step; organization and action will follow, while war and bloodshed shall be known no more forever."

Westville, Mo.

WAS John Alexander, says the Brunswicker, was making hay last Friday on the farm of John Williams, near Indian Grove, a mule that he was driving to the rake became frightened and began to run away. Mr. Alexander succeeded in so far checking the runaway as to be able to get to the bike, thinking to be better able to hold the mule, but he was knocked down and the rake, a wooden revolving one, passed over him, one tooth striking his temple, tearing loose the skin on his head to the extent of six stitches, and breaking through the upper layer of the cranium. Young Alexander was rendered unconscious for several hours, but is now on the way to recovery.

Have you seen it? What? Roy Holcomb's mustache.

COULD NOT AGREE.

The case of the state against Chas. W. Meeks, charged with rape upon Pearl Hoston, his 13-year-old sister-in-law, in July, 1893, which was taken from this to Carroll county on a change of venue, went to trial in the Carroll county circuit court, at Carrollton, last Monday at noon, and the testimony was all in before adjournment Monday night.

The case was argued by the counsel for five hours on Tuesday and submitted to the jury about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. After being out about twenty-four hours the jury was discharged, not being able to agree, eight being for acquittal and four for conviction throughout their stay in the jury room.

The counsel in the case were: Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Wallace, of Keytesville, and A. W. Johnson, of Salisbury, for the state, and W. H. Bradley, of Salisbury, and L. H. Kinley, of Kansas City, for the defense.

After the jury was discharged, Meeks' attorneys asked bail for their client, which was allowed by the court and bail fixed at $2,500.

The required bail had not been given at last reports, but Meeks, it is said, expects to furnish the necessary bond sometime this week.

The case of the state against W. S. Vincent, a former citizen of Charlton county, who is in the toils of the law in Carroll county, charged with embezzlement and horse stealing, was continued by agreement.

Fatally Hurt.

Albert Miller, an indigent farm hand who had been working for John Bachtel, of near Indian Grove, started to the pasture on horseback about sunup last Saturday morning to drive up some stock.

The horse which Miller was riding objected to a curb-bis bridle, and when Miller drew up heavily on the reins the animal reared up and fell back, catching Miller beneath: inflicting internal injuries from which he died the Sunday night following.

The unfortunate man was 54 years old, but had no family. He had resided in the vicinity of Indian Grove for several years where he had been in the employ of several different farmers at various times.

His remains were interred at Mon church cemetery last Monday.

Squire Clifton, of near Guthridge Mills, was in Keytesville Wednesday talking up a tri-weekly star mail route from Keytesville to Marceline by way of Snapp, Craneville, Guthridge Mills and Mike. Such a route would be a decided convenience and would greatly facilitate the transmission of mails between Keytesville and Marceline. We hope Squire Clifton may be successful in his efforts to induce Uncle Sam to establish the new route. A man has been found who says he will accept the contract for $500 a year.

Ed. Eldson, of near Brunswick, and Ludwig Strub, of Brunswick, have been in Keytesville this week receiving apples for J. R. Smith and John Ficker, Brunswick apple dealers. Eldson shipped out a 10,000-pound load for Mr. Smith Wednesday. Strub is still receiving for Mr. Ficker. The prevailing price paid for the fruit is 30 cents a bushel.

Thos. H. Binford received through his mail Wednesday a photograph of his brother Williams' fine residence in the suburbs of Topeka, Kas. Mr. Binford is quite proud of the gift and takes pleasure in exhibiting it to his friends.

Mrs. M. E. Dougherty, of Fayetteville, Mo., stopped here yesterday morning on her return from a visit to her daughter, at Topeka, Kas., to spend a few days with her mother, C. L. and T. F. White.

Quite a number of Keytesvillians attended Poeppaugh's circus, at Salisbury, last Wednesday and report it rather a snide affair.

TO PARENTS.

Sometimes parents in casting about for a school for their son or daughter say: "Well, it doesn't make much difference where we send. There are so many schools and they are so equally good."

A great mistake. There are many schools, but they are not all equally good; and it makes a great difference as to what school you send.

There is nothing on earth so dear to you as your children, and nothing in life will affect their future destiny more than the school—the discipline and training of the school to which you send them.

The school that is building for all time, that regards the future success and usefulness of your son and daughter more than present whim or gratification, that esteems the formation of character of greater moment than having a "good time"—the school that does this is the school for your children.

The element of the time is important. It takes time to build anything great and permanent. A school must be tried; its work must be tested; its policy and methods must be approved.

North Missouri Institute has been tried, its work tested, and its policy and methods bear the stamp of public approval.

The work of higher education begun in 1888 in Salisbury, has been continued under the same management in North Missouri Institute for the past three years. So we open

OUR SEVENTH SESSION

Sept. 3d, 1894, more firmly established, more convinced of the need of such a school in this section, more impressed with the importance of its high mission.

We solicit your patronage, and guarantee satisfaction. Send for catalogue or other information.
